MANUFACTURE OF MOLDINGS

On an Extensive Scale—Spears &
Riddle's New Plant Being Rushed to Completion.

WHEELING, July 29.—The Hood Manufacturing Company, backed by a number of responsible business men throughout the state, The Hood Manufacturing Company, capitalized at $50,000, and incorporated by C. W. Arnett, J. A. Jamison, C. C. Wheeler and G. M. Alexander, of Fairmont; Hugh Hood, of Little Falls, W. Va., and Harry Clayton, of Mountain Lake Park, Md., have leased the building at the corner of Eighteenth and Chapline streets, and occupied at present by Spears & Riddle, for a term of three years, beginning April 1, 1901.

The Hood Company, which will go into the manufacture of picture frames and moldings on a large scale, will take the unexpired lease of Spears & Riddle in September.

Extensive improvements, including an elevator and changes throughout the building, are to be made as soon as Spears & Riddle move their plant. Expensive machines have been ordered. The new concern will employ twenty-five or thirty people.

The new building of Spears & Riddle, the machinists, on Twentieth street, is being pushed by the contractors. The bricklayers have commenced on the first story and the speedy completion is desired to enable the Hood company to get possession of the old quarters.

To Manufacture Chemicals.

A party of Pittsburgh and Wheeling capitalists have formed a company for the manufacture of chemicals used in glass manufacturing.

An application for a charter has been filed and it is understood that plans have been prepared for the erection of a plant at Clarksburg, W. Va.

James B. Graham, of Pittsburgh, is president of the new company, which is to be called the Wuth chemical company with an authorized capital of $1,000,000.

An Oil Purchase.

The Central Oil Company has purchased the Old Colony Oil Company.

The former has held for some time one-tenth interest in the latter and has now bought the remaining nine-tenths. The property of the Old Colony company is located six miles south of St. Mary's, West Virginia, and by its acquisition the production of the Central company is increased by two hundred barrels a day. The Central Oil Company's total production is now brought to above 1,000 barrels a day.

This purchase has been followed by rumors of a consolidation of the United States, Central and Shawmut companies.
